Appeal for Organ Donation Awareness & Pledge Drive

As we proudly approach the 100th National Conference of the Indian Medical Association (IMA) in December 2025, the IMA has resolved to commemorate this historic milestone through 100 impactful tasks that contribute meaningfully to society.

Among these initiatives, "Organ Donation Awareness and Pledge Registration" has been chosen as a key focus area. In this noble endeavor, IMA Gujarat State Branch (GSB) and Angdaan Charitable Trust have come together with a collective mission to register 21,000 organ donation pledges from Gujarat before the grand event.

We invite all IMA members, medical institutions, and socially committed individuals to join hands in creating awareness and encouraging more people to pledge their organs — a gift that gives life even after death.

To organize an awareness session or pledge drive at your hospital, medical college, or community platform, kindly get in touch with:

Vicarious Liability in Medical Practice

Author :Dr. Rupal Kapadia(DA, MD, PGDMLPE)

Associate professor of Anaesthesia,
Narendra Modi Medical College, Ahmedabad

INTRODUCTION

Hospitals in early histories were considered as charitable institutions and were afforded absolute immunity from tortious liability, as the element of control over the method of working was lacking. However, in modern cases, a different view has prevailed. Professional qualified staff have been held to be employees of the hospital authority for the purposes of vicarious liability. As stated by Lord Denning in Roe v Minister of Health, ... the hospital authorities are responsible for the whole of their staff, not only for the nurses and doctors, but also for the anaesthetists and the surgeons. It does not matter whether they are permanent or temporary, resident or visiting, whole time or part time. The hospital authorities are responsible for all of them.

VICARIOUS LIABILITY

VICAR meaning substitute / representative .Vicarious liability is a legal principle where one party is held responsible for the act or omission of another party, even if they did not directly participate in the wrongdoing.This liability arises in those cases where there is a special relationship that exists between the wrongdoer and the person who is held liable such as employee and employer relationship.Although the employer is liable for the employee's conduct, the employee, too, remains jointly liable for the harm caused.

Principles of Vicarious Liability

1. Qui facit per alium facit per se

As per this maxim, a person who acts through another person is deemed by law to have done that act himself. Thus, whenever a person authorized another person to act on his behalf, if any liability arises out of such act the person who gave the authorization will be held liable .For eg. Wrong medication given by nurse to the patient – harm /damage – hospital/clinic liable to pay monetary compensation.

2. Respondeat Superior

According to this maxim, the superior should be held responsible by law for the acts done by his subordinate. For eg. When a senior consultant delegates his responsibilities to junior / student , any wrong in the part of the junior member will make the senior liable.

1. There must be a certain type of relation between the parties. Employee and Employer / Owner and Independent Contractor/Partners in Partnership Firm / Principal and Agent.
2. The wrongful act which amounts to a tort (civil matter where remedies include monetary compensation) must be committed by another person. Vicarious liability is not applicable in criminal cases.

3. The wrongful act must happen during the course of employment. Which means that the negligence must have occurred when:
 - The wrong act happened during employee's duty hours.
 - The injury/negligence was the result of an action that the employee was hired and paid to perform, such as birth injury during delivery.
 - The employer had benefitted from the activity that the employee had performed that caused the injury.

Purpose of Vicarious Liability

The reasons behind holding the employer liable for the actions of his employee are:

1. An employee is just an agent who is controlled and supervised by his employer.
2. The employer always enjoys the profit derived from the efforts of the employee, so he must also bear the loss that occurred by the activity of the employee but only in the course of employment
3. The employer is financially stable than that of a employee. So, the employer is more suitable to pay for the damages caused by the tortious act of the servant

Doctors or Hospitals? Liability in medical negligent cases:

In negligence cases, sometimes it is hard to figure out which medical professional caused a patient's personal injury. Sometimes, it is easy to know who caused the injury. For eg. when a surgeon operates on a wrong limb. What happens when it is difficult to pinpoint who caused a patient's personal injury if multiple medical professionals could have caused the injury? Imagine if, before surgery, someone gave a patient an incorrect dosage of a prescription medication. The dosage caused the patient to go into cardiac arrest and required them to spend several days in intensive care. As a result, the patient may be vulnerable to future heart issues. Who is responsible? pharmacist, doctor or nurse?

CASE LAWS:

Cassidy v Ministry of Health (1951) is a seminal case in the development of vicarious liability in healthcare. The claimant, Mr Cassidy, underwent hand surgery at a hospital managed by the Ministry of Health. Following the operation, his hand was left stiff and useless. The Court of Appeal held that the hospital was vicariously liable for the negligence of its medical staff. This case set a precedent for holding hospitals responsible for the actions of medical professionals working within their facilities, significantly influencing subsequent healthcare liability cases.

IMPORTANT CASES IN INDIA

Global hospital vs P. Manjula 2023: Manjula's husband underwent bypass surgery. He died after a brain stroke during the procedure. The TSCDRC in November 2016 ruled in favour of Manjula and her sons, holding Global Hospitals liable for negligence and deficiency of service. The state commission ruled that the hospital failed to ensure proper oxygen supply during the surgery, resulting in hypoxia. The patient slipped into a coma and died. The NCDRC upheld the decision of state commission and ordered the hospital to pay compensation of 18 lacs to family.

Maharaja Agrasen Hospital v. Rishabh Sharma (2022): The complainant Pooja Sharma (mother of infant Rishabh) filed the complaint on the ground of medical negligence committed by the doctors employed by the hospital for not conducting a mandatory check-up known as Retinopathy of Prematurity (ROP) of the infant resulting in infant being blind permanently. Apex court asked hospital to pay 1.8 crore for missing retinopathy screening.

Dr. Krishna Mohan Bhattacharjee V/s. Bombay Hospital & Research Centre (Consumer Case No.221/2000): C/O Meningioma - postoperative complications - death of patient. Neurosurgery was done without proper preoperative workup. Failed to perform CT/BT tests to rule out bleeding tendencies in planned neurosurgery. Commission observed that one of the reputed hospital of country has not followed standard operating protocols and asked to pay compensation of Rs. 10 lacs with interest.

Dr. Reba Modak vs Shankara Netralaya (2022) –Her son aged 6 years died on table during squint surgery. Arguments for probable causes -Long duration of fasting, cardiologist failed to investigate congenital anomalies, anaesthesia and surgical error, overworked surgeon (did 16 surgeries before)surgery being elective could have been postponed. SC upholds NCDRC decision of rs 1 crore compensation to parents(85 lacs to hospital, 10 lacs to anaesthetist, 5 lacs to surgeon)

“If the hospital fails to discharge their duties through their empanelled doctors, it is the hospital which has to justify the acts of commission or omission on behalf of their doctors”

Vicarious Liability For Hospitals/ Clinics

Misdiagnosis, Faulty type of equipment, unskilled staff, Administering wrong or untimely medication, or not administering one when required, Surgical errors and mistakes, Careless monitoring of the patient / not maintaining records, Failure to follow up with a patient, failure to protect patient confidentiality

Vicarious Liability For Doctors

In many cases, a doctor is responsible for supervising and overseeing a team of other healthcare employees such as junior doctors, nurses and technicians. If a member of this team commits negligence and does not provide a quality standard of care, the doctor may be held liable. May also be liable for the negligence of their partners and associates.

COMMON DEFENCES BY HOSPITALS IN INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR'S NEGLIGENCE CASES

Doctor is not it's employee/ on a payroll, Doctor comes per case basis/ not a full-time consultant, The hospital only provides infrastructure, nurses, equipments, beds etc. Doctor hires OT for his own patients and hospital doesn't have control over him.

Corporate hospitals may give such excuses to escape from the liability. But such excuses are not valid in Apex court and NCDRC.

The hospital is responsible for its own staff and also the independent contractors

- It owes quality of care to patients
- Gains financial benefits from visiting doctors work
- Hospital's portrayal of doctor to patients
- Hospital's control over nonclinical matters

The Future of Vicarious Liability in Healthcare

- All healthcare facilities are liable for important basic needs like having clean, functional facilities and enough health care professionals to staff the facilities.
- Properly train and supervise employees
- Protect patient confidentiality
- Proper documentation and record keeping
- Maintain quality controls and employ competent workers who have received the proper education and training
- The hospitals should delineate clear responsibilities among employees.
- Future cases may need to address issues of liability for errors in AI algorithms / telemedicine and robotic platforms.
- Healthcare facilities should implement robust risk assessment protocols to identify and address potential legal issues early.
- Adequate insurance coverage is crucial to mitigate financial risks.
- The future development of vicarious liability in healthcare will require a careful balancing act between ensuring patient protection and maintaining a fair and sustainable operating environment for healthcare providers. This balance will likely be shaped by both judicial decisions and legislative interventions in the coming years.
